Art 17th to 19th century
Biberach is a city of the arts. Johann Melchior Dinglinger, the goldsmith of German Baroque, who comes from Biberach and who created precious works in Dresden, counts among the greatest.

Artists’ studios
The unique studios of the Munich animal painters Anton Brath and Christian Mali as well as the studio of the Biberach painter Jakob Bräckle document the change in artistic self-conception.

Ernst Ludwig Kirchner
It is thanks to fortunate circumstances that the brother of the expressionist Ernst Ludwig Kirchner lived in Biberach. This is how numerous works by Kirchner ended up in Biberach Museum.

Art 20th and 21st century
Heinz H. Engler is one of the most successful designers in Germany. A number of young artists is continuing the artistic tradition of the town.

Natural history
How old is Mother Earth? How many stars are there in the sky? Fossils of ichthyosaurus, sharks and mammoths carry you away into a time millions of years ago.

Archaeology
The Biberach dentist and archaeological pioneer Heinrich Forschner has collected about 22,000 archaeological finds from Upper Swabia including the remains of two pile-dwelling settlements, which today are under the protection of the UNESCO.

History
Gothic, Baroque and Biedermeier-style works of art, a tannery, decorative traganth items and the oldest tin toy of the Wuerttemberg region illustrate almost 1,000 years of city life.

Weaving mill
Biberach is an old weaving town that became rich with fustian, a blended fabric made from linen and cotton. Weaving demonstrations take place on Sundays from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.
